

The following is by Ronnie Polansky and Mary Ellen Hill

We All Contain a Spark!

CHORUS: We all, we all, we all contain a spark of the Universe. We all, we all, we all contain a spark!

VERSES:

1) This story is very, very old and now it's something we all can know.
That out of a spark much smaller than a seed mysteriously came everything we need.

2) The Universe for billions of years made galaxies and stars so clear.
Then out of the hearts of the stars we see, came all the elements for you and me.

3) Five billion years ago in our home galaxy came a sight so beautiful for all to see.
Our radiant day star, the Sun was born that brought a light to keep all warm.

4) Swirling around for millions of years were bits of gas, rock and dust so near.
Then all settled down into a sun family bringing nine planets and many moons to see.

5) After baby Earth settled down she brought forth some solid ground.
For millions of years the rain did fall creating a home for one and all.

6) I look in your eyes and the spark that I see is the same one that's burning inside of me.
It's the spark that created the stars that shine and the seas and the plants and this Earth so fine.